The local lodge of the Degree of Honor had a largely attended meeting last Friday night at which refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee were served. In each dish of ice cream was concealed a tiny doll and much fun was occasioned on its disclosure. To the one taking the longest time to eat the cream was awarded a prize which fell to Mrs. E. E. Trefry, who proved to be the slowest eater. The next meeting of the Lodge will be held on Friday evening, October 27, when a mystery tea will follow the business. Non-members may attend after the business has been transacted.

The most unique industry in the world is that carried on at Kimberley, where the diamonds are obtained.

In Dr. Bowker's travel talk on the Transvaal he takes his audience, incidentally to Cape Colony and introduces them to the wonders of Kimberley and actually traverses acres of diamonds. When the discovery of the precious stones was made, the gems were found in the mud walls of the homes of the Boers who were totally ignorant of the immense wealth that lay within their grasp. This lecture is said to be a fine exposition of South Africa and is profusely illustrated with a rich and unique selection of views. It carries one not only through the Transvaal, but to Durban, Natal, Johannesburg and the far famed Cape Town.

At the present time when Briton and Boer are struggling for mastery, this is an especially appropriate subject.

Andover o, Harvard Freshmen o.

The game between P. A. and the Harvard Freshmen was a hotly contested one, last Wednesday afternoon, and after 35 minutes of see-sawing up and down the field, the contestants left the field, neither side having scored. Since Exeter and Harvard Freshmen played each other to a standstill last Saturday at Cambridge, the result here is significant.

Again Andover entered the game with a practically substitute eleven, as Captain Davis, Bloomer, Collins and Brown did not play. With the two former in their places at tackle, and with Collins at half back, the result would doubtless have been materially changed.

Both teams played a kicking game with the advantage slightly in Andover's favor. Stevens punted well, getting good distance into his kicks. Several of Stillman's punts were blocked but the ball was regained by a Harvard man in every instance. The chief fault of the Freshmen was fumbling, which lost them the ball on several occasions.

Andover was unable to make many gains through Harvard's centre and although they had the ball inside of the Freshmen's ten yard line, they were unable to score. Andover's goal was not once in danger, although Hersey, formerly of Exeter, gave the P. A. men a scare by his 35 yard run around Rafferty's end. Stevens made some substantial gains for Andover in the first half and Reinhardt backed the line for several yards at a time in the second half. Levine was not up to his usual standard of work and could seldom make a gain.

Andover's line held well considering that they played the game through with only one change, Butkiewicz supplanting Flinn at centre in the second half, while Harvard presented a fresh eleven.

Storey, left end, and the centre men, Sugden, Riggs and Cudaby played well for Harvard. Stillman and Hersey did most of the ground gaining. The line-up was as follows:

The Tailor's Cross.

There is a story of an envious tailor current with the French peasantry. He fancied that his neighbor, who received a pension for the loss of an arm, incurred while fighting for his country, was better off than himself. Both men went to pay their rent on the same day.

"That's a lucky man," said the tailor to the landlord. "He gets well paid for his arm."

"But who would be willing to part with an arm even if he were paid for it," said the landlord.

"I would," declared the tailor. "Why man, you wouldn't be willing to bear anything of the sort, no matter how much you were paid for it."

"I wish some one would try me," said the landlord.

"Now see here," said the landlord who had studied human nature. "I'll tell you what, if you'll wear even so much as a chalk mark on your back, I'll remit your rent as long as you wear it on your coat so it can be seen, the condition being that you tell no one why it is there."

"That's an easy way to pay rent," said the tailor. "So the chalk mark in the form of a cross was made on the back of his coat and the delighted tailor sallied forth upon the street."

"Strangers and acquaintances hailed him to tell him of his mark on his back. Jokes were made at his expense, children laughed and pointed at him, and his wife annoyed him with questions, and with conjugal familiarity told him he was a fool. The usually amiable man grew surly, and morose, he shunned men, women and children, and frequented back streets. Before the week was out the tailor found himself embroiled in a quarrel with his best friend, his wife had threatened to leave his house, and he considered himself miserable and ill-used."

Finally one night he took off his coat and rubbed out the chalk mark and said: "There! I would not wear that cross on my back another week, no, not if I could have all the money there is in Paris."

A RAD CASE.

They were talking about a certain public office holder.

"And so," said one, "you are inclined to believe he is crooked, are you?"

"Crooked?" the other answered, "why that fellow is so crooked that I'll bet he can't be straight in bed!"—Cleveland Leader.

Oom Paul's Diamonds.

If Oom Paul decides to take the initiative in the approaching conflict, it is not improbable that he may cross the border into Kimberley and seize the enormous stock of gems kept there by the British company which owns the diamond mines. The latter being defended only by a single regiment of militia, this movement will be attended by no difficulty, and the government of the Transvaal will find itself provided with a vast sum of money to serve as sinews of war.

Nobody knows just how much value in the shape of diamonds is kept in store at Kimberley, but it is certainly gigantic. Quite possibly it is $100,000,000 worth. The company has offices in London, but its headquarters are in the South African city, and there, in a building resembling a bank, the bulk of the gems is kept, stored away in vaults. If only a fraction of them were offered for sale at once the price of diamonds would promptly tumble, but the great corporation, owning as it does deposits which produce ninety-eight per cent of the world's entire yield of these precious stones, is able to control the market absolutely, and holds back a large part of its output, disposing of only a limited number of carats each year.

The yield of the mines is about 5,500 carats every twenty-four hours and the diamonds obtained from the diggings are sent daily under armed escort, to the company's headquarters, and there delivered to the appraisers in charge. First they are cleaned by boiling them in a mixture of nitric and sulphuric acids, and then they are carefully sorted in respect to size, color and purity.

In one room are kept on exhibition stones aggregating 60,000 carats, and the spectacle they afford is most striking.

Only a dozen years the Kimberley mines were worked at more than 300 separate claims, each 31 feet square and separated from one another by narrow roads for hauling the gem bearing earth. In 1893, however, Cecil Rhodes brought about a consolidation of all these properties into a single corporation, which now practically monopolizes the diamond production of the world, with a capital of $19,500,000.

As is usual in such cases the discovery of diamonds in South Africa was purely accidental. A stranger, traveling through the country stopped over night at the house of a Dutch farmer who showed him as curiosities some bright pebbles found by his children, which the latter used as playthings. The visitor suspected that they were diamonds and being an honest man suggested the idea to his host taking them to the nearest city, sold them for a sum sufficient to make him rich for life.

Later on many valuable stones were found in the gravels of the Vaal and Orange Rivers but it was not until 1870 that the prospectors came upon the real source of supply from which these accidental gems had been washed out by the streams. Even then only the yellowish surface earth was worked, and when the miners got down to the blue clay which later proved to be the true matter of the stones, they imagined that the deposits were exhausted. The Kimberley mines now yield 2,500,000 carats annually representing a value of $25,000,000 of which two fifths is clear profit. During the last quarter century they have added to the world's wealth ten tons of diamonds worth $300,000,000 uncut and $600,000,000 after cutting.

These mines employ fifteen hundred Europeans and about sixty-six hundred Kaffirs. Necessarily the utmost precautions have to be taken against theft, and yet notwithstanding all preventive measures the company reckons on a loss of ten to fifteen per cent of its product in this way. The business of purchasing stolen gems occupies many enterprising persons and the methods devised by the I. D. B.'s as the illicit diamond buyers are called, exhibit an ingenuity worthy of a more honorable calling.

In 1894 the Jagerfontein diamond was discovered at one of the Kimberley mines. It weighed 971 carats or nearly half a pound avoirdupois and was three inches long, one and one-half inches thick, and two and one-half inches wide. A Kaffir picked it up while he was hauling a cart with blue clay and concealing it about his person, gave it to the manager directly. In return he received $50 in cash, a horse and a saddle. The stone is valued at $250,000. It is bluish-white in color, and faultless except for a small flaw in the centre. It was presented to the Pope by Oom Paul Kruger.

An Evening Call.

He who best knows how to propitiate the mother of his best girl has the battle more than half won. This has to do with a bungler in the line referred to.

He called at the pretty house on National avenue and made the mistake of trying to entertain the mother instead of allowing the mother to entertain him while waiting for the girl, who had not completed her toilet.

"What are the three latest methods of rapid communication?" he asked very early in their conversation. She gave it up and he gibbly said: "Telephone, graph, telephone and tellawoman."

That she was indignant appeared in the fact that she did not laugh and went on to tell what a revival of old jokes there had been of late. But he never twiggled and continued to be "smart."

The mother determined to be watchful. The daughter came and the mother excused herself, only to find a seat in the back parlor. She had taken a dislike to the youth and was on duty. The baby of the household came in, and as a matter of course, toddled right to the corner occupied by sister and her "steady."

Full five minutes mamma sat in alert silence, and then baby chirped. "Tiss me, too, sis?"

Sister always has her head, and at once said in a raised tone of voice: "Baby should not say 'Kiss me too,' say 'kiss me twice.'"

But the mother is not easily hoodwinked. She smiled grimly as she walked into the parlor and said that baby was quite too young to take lessons in grammar. Then she sat down and coldly chaperoned the couple until the smart young man left.—Detroit Free Press.

HON. GEO. D. ALDEN, Boston, Mass.

The Company owns over twelve thousand acres of rich copper land in Texas, opened, tested, developed and NOW BEING OPERATED. Millions of tons of copper bearing clay and marl running from five to ten per cent., and large quantities of ore carrying from fifty to seventy per cent. copper in sight. Cheaply mined and treated, favorable climate, cheap fuel, and ample water. Stated by geologists, chemists, experts and engineers to be one of the greatest and best in the world. Amount of land, quantity and quality of ore, cheapness of mining and treatment, the increasing demand and profit in producing copper considered, the Boston and Texas Copper Company possesses unequalled advantages and affords the best kind of an investment.

COPPER MINING IS THE SAFEST AND MOST PROFITABLE OF ALL INDUSTRIES.

Calumet and Hecla ore averages 4 1-2 per cent. copper. It has paid $62,850,000 dividends

Tamarack ore averages 3 per cent. It has paid $5,910,000 in dividends.

Atlantic ore averages 85-100 of 1 per cent. It has paid $780,000 in dividends.

Boston and Montana ore runs 7 per cent. It has paid $10,775,000 in dividends.

Franklin ore averages 1 37-100 per cent. It has paid $1,290,000 in dividends.

The Quincy ore averages 1 8-10 per cent. It has paid $11,070,000.

THE AVERAGE OF BOSTON & TEXAS ORE IS OVER 50 PER CENT., and of copper marls and clays from 5 to 10 per cent. Both the ore, marl and clay are within a few feet of the surface of the ground, so that the expense of mining and hoisting is minimized. A party of New England capitalists who have just returned from an examination of the mines in conjunction with one of the ablest mining engineers in the country, report the property to be one of the largest and best in America, and to contain inexhaustible quantities of rich copper deposits.

It is estimated that the plant now being arranged for will produce $3,000 to $5,000 per day, NET.

Prospectus, engineers' reports, assays and full information will be furnished on application. Remit by check, P. O. order, draft or registered letter to Treasurer.

Limited amount of stock only at $5 per share, full paid and non-assessable, by immediate application.

TREMONT BUILDING, BOSTON, MASS.

Breaking Up Armor Plate.

MONOCACY, Pa.—Up in the ravine a half a mile from here is where they use a half of ton of dynamite every week in an armor plate graveyard. Steel armor plate that fails to pass the government inspection is sent here to be broken into fragments to be returned to the melters at the mills. The noise of the process may be heard fifteen miles away. Operations are directed by Caleb Bland. He has forty men at work twenty who drill holes in the armor plate by night, and twenty who do nothing but explode dynamite by electricity during the day.

As many as forty holes are drilled in a single plate. These holes are filled with dynamite which is fired by wire, one shot after another, reminding one of the roar of artillery or the thunder of battleships in action. This is kept up all day. The sides of the surrounding hills break, in a measure, the terrific sound, yet the roar is deafening and the earth shakes. They use the finest diamond drills, and the men engaged in the business have been doing little else for a long time. It is remarkable that not more people are hurt. The workers use four tons of dynamite every month and yet accidents are rare. They are now blowing to pieces armor plate from the Midvale Steel Works under contract. The plates are shipped by rail to the Monocacy ravine over the Reading railroad and when they are broken into bits are sent back again. They also blast into fragments large condemned cannons from various gunworks, forts and ships.

They are busy every day. The terrific firing begins about 5 o'clock every morning and continues until well on in the afternoon. Frequently gunners or nut hunters are alarmed by the fearful noise, not knowing what is the cause. They break up thousands of pounds of chilled steel every day. The drills are run by steam. The drilling is done by hand, so that they can fire during the day and not keep any one from sleep. The only complaints they now have are from some new men on the night shift who cannot sleep in the day. Said one of the bosses:

"Our old men who work at night can sleep in the day quite well, no matter how much noise we make. They are used to it. Those men can sleep during the most terrific explosions. It is wonderful yet they do it. The women folks for miles around attend to their household work, not at all minding the roar of the exploding dynamite. They are accustomed to it. The children go to school and study their lessons, but are not disturbed. It is just as if they were studying near the firing line of an army every school day. They don't mind it. Wonderful what we can get use to."

Strangers coming along hold their ears and leave in terror. If they stop awhile they would get used to it. No, we have no complaints from our men about injured eardrums. Some wear cotton in their ears, but not many. We can fire a hundred shots by electricity very fast, nearly one a second, if it is necessary. You can imagine it requires a good many shots to use up a ton of dynamite in six working days. We are careful in handling the dynamite, and that's why we have so few casualties. We have the best of appliances for preventing the scattering of fine iron or steel in the air and to avoid damages resulting from flying fragments. We had a man in our employ who was blown up, losing his feet, hands and both eyes. He still lives and is doing the work of an evangelist.—N. Y. Sun.

ROBBED THE GRAVE.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows. I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying "Electric Bitters," and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued to use for three weeks, and am now well again. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim. No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cts., guaranteed, at Arthur Bliss' Drug Store.

A HUSTLER.

"Now, then my friend," said the business like young preacher, pocketing the wedding fee and turning again to the bridegroom, "let me ask you if you are carrying any life insurance?"

"No sir," replied the newly made Benedict, "not yet."

"Well, the most sacred duty resting upon you now is to take out a liberal policy for the benefit of this charming young woman who is to be dependent upon you hereafter. I represent one of the strongest and best companies in this country. Here are the figures showing," etc.

And he got the young husband's application. There's nothing like finishing a job thoroughly while you are about it.—Chicago Record.

Here is a Georgia boy's composition on "Poetry": "A poem is a thing which has rhymes at the last end. A poem also has feet, but some poems don't stand on 'em. Poets mostly has long hair, because times is hard and it's cheaper to let it grow. Poets used to live in garrets on a crust of bread—when the baker wouldn't credit 'em."

Now they live on the ground floor, where they can escape easy when the ball is after them. My father says poetry makes the world better, but my mother says it ain't the kind he writes. Poets have a monument when they die, as people want to weight 'em down so's they can't come back.—Atlanta Constitution.

Open-Mouthed Astonishment.

Hiram M. Stanley advances a new explanation of the tendency to open the mouth in surprise and astonishment. Darwin ascribed this tendency to the intuitive desire for quietness and inactivity of breathing, and to mere relaxation of the muscles. Mr. Stanley finds a deeper organic reason, viz.: that the open mouth is the attention sign, and is a primitive and constant reaction with the young of many animals for the reception of food—for example, with birds. Any sound or other stimulus immediately causes the young bird to extend its mouth. With young infants the same influence is the same effect. The mouth of the infant under such stimulation usually assumes the sucking form, and its smile when the finger is pointed at it may be either ecstatic or degraded sucking.

Mr. Stanley maintains that the common and highly useful tendency of the very young to open the mouth to all stimuli, visual, aural, etc., continues as a survival in adult life, being especially brought out with stimuli of high intensity and unusual quality, and thus becomes a mark of surprise and astonishment. It is a habit very common among boys and girls to open the mouth under any attention. The rise of smiling and laughter as connected with wit and humor—at the basis of which lies surprise—thus declare itself as a kind of attention expression. Assuming that the primary expression of the mouth is a feeding expression, and that this probably has been modified and evolved in connection with a variety of attention phenomena, Mr. Stanley suggests that it would be worth while to make a detailed study of expression in infants and young animals with this point in view.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

ON THE SAFE SIDE.

"You know, I'm always nervous when you go sailing," she said.

"O, there's no danger," he returned. "Maybe not," she replied with a shake of her head, "but I shall feel a good deal more comfortable if you leave your watch and pocketbook with me."—Chicago Evening Post.

MENUS FOR A WEEK.

FOR MONDAY'S BREAKFAST.

One does not reason with the heart; one either breaks it or yields to it.—Rochford.

BREAKFAST.—Boiled Rice. Fruit. Minced Chicken on Toast. Tomato and Cress Salad. Cottage Cheese. Hot Rolls. Coffee.

ENGLISH CHERRY BOUNCE.—Take 12 pounds of large black cherries, wipe and cut off each stem down to half an inch, then prick each with a needle. Put them in wide mouthed quart bottles with a tumbler of sirup (simple sirup of loaf sugar) and four cloves each. Pour upon the cherries enough brandy to cover them and cork the bottles for a month. Then pour off the brandy, and to each quart of liquid add eight ounces of rock candy powdered fine; when dissolved, pour the brandy back again on the cherries. This is a method for private use. One for purposes of sale highly recommended in: Take any quantity of black cherries, stem them and crush them with a mallet, put in a cask and cover with strong spirit, stirring occasionally for seven days. The cask should be tapped and stood on the head before the cherries are put in; add to every four pints four pints of water, and one pound of sugar; pour backward and forward for another week, then bottle. Another method is to use half elderberries with the cherries and elder instead of water with the spirit. A New England method is four quarts of brandy, four pounds of red cherries, two pounds of black cherries, one quart of raspberries, a dozen cloves, one stick of cinnamon, half an orange peel. Let this stand a month closely stopped, then bottle it, putting a lump of sugar in each bottle. The liquor in all cases is strained away from the cherries and spice. Cherry bounce in France is called ratifia de cerises and is made of Morelle cherries stoned, the kernels crushed with a mallet, eight pounds of cherries to eight pints of brandy; soak for a month. Strain, press the juice forcibly out of the cherries and then add to the quantity 1½ pounds of sugar. Let it stand to mix, strain and bottle. Another English method: Five gallons of cherries and two gallons of white sugar sirup. Let it stand a month, with three quarts of pure spirit. Dissolve in a quart of pure spirit half ounce of oil of bitter almonds, quarter ounce oil of cloves, quarter ounce oil of cinnamon. Mix with the strained juice from the cherries and bottle. Cherry cordial: One quart of the juice of cherries, two pounds of best white sugar. Stir the sugar into the juice until thoroughly dissolved, then add the brandy and filter through blotting paper.

Rub a basin well with garlic and beat the eggs well into it. Put the tomato through a sieve and stir into it the eggs. Squeeze in a little lemon juice, season with salt, pepper, pour into the butter, and saute to a pale golden color. Place on a dish, and sprinkle the cheese over the double omelet and serve quickly.

Cook on a grid placed in a saucepan or in a mosquito netting, as preferred. Drain it after cooking, and let it reduce in heat till only warm; pour Hollandaise sauce over it.

Put the scraps and trimmings in a saucepan, with half a pint of claret, two shallots, a bay leaf, a sprig of thyme, a pinch of red pepper and a pint of espagnole sauce. Reduce this over a quick fire and strain, add two ounces of butter, half a pint of shrimps and the juice of half a lemon. Mix well, but do not boil. Dish the duck on a large slice of bread fried in butter. Pour the sauce over the duck and garnish with a vol-au-vent.

FRICASSEED RABBITS.

The best way to cook rabbits is to fricassee them. Cut them up, or disjoint them. Put them into a stew pan; season them with cayenne pepper, salt and some chopped parsley. Pour in a pint of warm water (or veal broth, if you have it) and stew it over a slow fire till the rabbits are quite tender, adding when they are about half done some bits of butter rolled in flour. Just before you take it from the fire, enrich the gravy with a gill or more of thick cream with some nutmeg grated into it. Stir the gravy well, but take care not to let it boil after the cream is in, lest it curdle. Put the pieces of rabbit in a hot dish, and pour the gravy over them.

BAKED SUEP PUDDING.

Boil one quart of milk; sift into it, holding the hand high, three-quarters of a cup of yellow corn-meal and stir until it is smooth and well scalded. Add one cup of molasses, one teaspoonful of salt, and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Butter a deep pudding dish, put into it one cup suet chopped fine, one quart of cold milk, one cup of currants or seedless raisins, or dried berries, and the boiling milk mixture. Bake very slowly six hours and let it stand in the oven over night if possible, or until the fire goes out, that it may have the ripening of the old brick oven. Serve with butter or cream.

MACARONI CROQUETTES.

Break one-quarter of a pound of macaroni in half-inch pieces, and boil rapidly in plenty of boiling, salted water for twenty-five minutes; throw in cold water for five minutes, then drain. Scald one cup of milk; rub one large tablespoonful of butter and two rounding tablespoonfuls of flour together until smooth; add the yolk of one egg, and beat for half a minute over the fire; add the macaroni, one tablespoonful of Parmesan cheese, salt and pepper to taste. Mix well, cool, form into croquettes, roll in egg, and then in bread crumbs, and fry in smoking hot fat; serve with cream sauce.

LEMON PIE.

Cream one cup of sugar and a piece of butter the size of an egg. Add two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch dissolved in a very little water. Then add the juice and rind of one large lemon. Upon this mixture pour one cup of boiling water. Cook this in a dish placed in hot water, and when clear and thick remove from the fire, and when cool, add the yolk of a well-beaten egg. Line a pie plate with a rich crust and bake. Add the mixture when cool and cover with the white of the egg, well beaten and sweetened. Put back in the oven until a golden brown.

VEAL STEWED WITH PARSNIPS.

Scrape and cut into dice two medium-sized parsnips and half a dozen roots of salsify. Pare one celery root and cut it quite fine. In the bottom of a stew-pan put four thin slices of salt pork, lay on this one pound of lean veal or a small-knuckle, add the vegetables and sufficient boiling water to partly cover. Simmer slowly for two hours, transfer the veal to a hot platter, arrange the vegetables around it, squeeze over it the juice of one-half of a sour orange, and cover it with the pot liquor in a sauce-boat.

DEVIL'S CAKE.

One cup of light brown sugar, one cup of grated chocolate, one and one-half cups of sweet milk. Scald the milk, adding the grated chocolate and the sugar, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Beat to a cream one cup of powdered sugar and half of a cup of butter, then add to the yolks of three eggs beaten light, half a cup of sour milk, to which has been added one small teaspoonful of soda, and two cups of flour. Add the first part to the second before adding all of the flour, and bake as a loaf cake.

BOILED FRESH COD.

Wash and clean the fish and rub salt on the inside. Put sufficient water in the fish kettle to cover the fish very well, and add to the water a large handful of salt. As soon as the salt is entirely melted put in the fish. A very small codfish will be done in about twenty minutes (after the water has boiled); a large one will take about an hour or more. Garnish with the roe and liver fried or with scraped horse-radish. Send it to the table with oyster sauce in a boat.

COCOANUT PUDDING.

Mix with a half a cupful of sponge cake crumbled fine a half pound of grated cocoanut. Cream together half a cupful of butter and a cup of sugar, add a cupful of rich milk or cream. Add gradually six eggs, beaten very light, then add the cocoanut and cake. Stir thoroughly, add vanilla flavoring to taste; put into a buttered dish and bake until set. This is nice to reserve the whites of three of the eggs for the top of the pudding.

CAKES FOR WINTER SOCIALS.

Before you begin to mix the cake, grease the tins with butter or lard as preferred—butter gives the crust a sweeter taste—but the cake is less likely to stick to the pans if lard is used, but if the tins are lined with paper, it will not matter which is used—paraffine paper may be used for lining the tins without greasing at all. Several thicknesses of paper should be laid in the bottom of pans for fruit cake, as this is more liable to burn than other kinds.

Have all the necessary ingredients at hand and see that the fire is good as cake should not be allowed to stand during the process of mixing, or when ready for the oven.

The butter and sugar should be stirred to a cream. This process is facilitated by having the mixing bowl slightly warm but on no account melt the butter. Upon this faithful "creaming" of the butter and sugar, depends chiefly the success of the cake.

To the butter and sugar add the eggs beaten thoroughly. In most cakes a better result is obtained by coating yolks and whites separately, and adding the beaten whites last.

Next add the milk and flavoring. Sift the baking powder or cream of tartar and soda thoroughly through the flour. Fruit and spices should always be added the last thing.

But much of the success of cake making depends upon the oven. Most cake requires a moderately hot oven to make it rise up well. Fruit cake should be put into a slow oven, as it needs longer baking and is apt to burn. For all cake the heat should be well kept up. Sponge cake in particular needs a steady heat. Jelly cake and all layer cakes need a hot oven, and are easier to bake than loaf cake. They bake quickly and require close watching to prevent burning around the edges. When loaf cake is placed in the oven do not open the door of the oven till the end of ten minutes or more as the chill of the outer air might cause the cake to fall. Do not remove the cake until it is thoroughly baked or it will fall.

Good cooks vary as to the use of pastry flour or bread flour in cake making. Pastry flour being generally advised by the best writers on cookery, but from actual results both are considered good.

A very good plate of assorted cake may be made up from the following recipes.

ANGLE CAKE.

One scant cup of flour measured after sifting four times; one teaspoonful cream of tartar sifted into the flour, eleven eggs (whites only), one and one-half cup finest granulated sugar, vanilla for flavoring. Use pastry flour. Beat the whites of the eggs till stiff, then beat in lightly the sifted flour, sugar and vanilla, pour into an ungreased pan without paper. Bake in a quick oven. When the cake is done, turn the pan upside down and rest it on something so the air can pass under the cake until it partly cools. Turn it out and frost the bottom with confectioners' sugar, wet up to the right consistency with cold water and flavored with vanilla and spread on the cake while warm.

DEVIL'S FOOD.

One-half cup grated chocolate, one-half cup milk, one egg (yolk only), cook all together in stew-pan till thick, then add this custard to one cup sugar and one-third cup butter, one-half cup milk, one and one-half cups flour into which is sifted one-half teaspoonful soda. Bake in square tin and frost with boiled frosting.

BOILED FROSTING.

One cup granulated sugar, one-half cup water boiled together till a little hair forms from the spoon. Then cool and pour on to the stiffly beaten white of an egg, stir till it granulates and spread on cake quickly while both the frosting and cake are warm.

DATE POUND CAKE.

One-half pound sugar, one-half cup butter, one-half pound flour, five eggs, one-half pound dates cut up fine, mix and bake in usual way. Very nice.

PURP. CAKE.

One cup sugar, one-half cup butter, whites three eggs, one-half cup corn starch, one-half cup sweet milk, one-half teaspoon cream tartar, one-quarter teaspoon soda, vanilla. Frost with chocolate frosting.

Dr. Bowker's Travel Talks.

Nothing could more forcibly emphasize Dr. Bowker's enormous range of travel than the three lectures he is soon to give in the Town Hall.

The Portland Argus said that "he has a newspaper faculty for presenting timely topics," a statement borne out by the titles of his talks here, "The Transvaal," "Spain," and "Hawaii, the Paradise of the Pacific." It is safe to say that no other lecturer of the present time can treat so diverse subjects so intelligently and with so firm a grasp as does he. His power to live, for the time being, in the lands which he speaks of, and to share that existence with his auditors and the force and vigor which he infuses into his talks are topics of much compliment to him.

The Transvaal is an entirely new and fresh theme and given by Dr. Bowker alone in America. Spain receives, at his hands, treatment of which she could not complain, while the romance of her life is most vividly portrayed. His last lecture on Hawaii is, of course, highly appropriate just now and one of widespread interest and is finely illustrated with fresh views, while the side issue he makes to lovely Samoa, with data of the Stevenson family, gives an added interest.

Andover is particularly fortunate in having the opportunity presented to hear these three live subjects discussed and pictured by Dr. Bowker and his stereopticon.

Editorial Cinders.

Has a parent any rights in or control over his children, when such rights and control interfere with state laws? It certainly would seem not if a recent law can be enforced as a superintendent of schools out in Royalston is attempting to enforce it.

Acting under authority of the law referred to, C. E. Putney, superintendent of schools in Templeton, Hubbardston, Royalston and Phillipston, has issued an order that any pupil under 14 years of age, who is absent more than five days during a term for any other cause than sickness shall cause his parent to be subject to a fine of from $5 to $20.

The law is probably designed for the good of that class in every community who persistently endeavor to keep their children from the public schools, but it is very easy to see how a bumptious school official might do some very disagreeable things to people whose judgment as to their children's schooling was very worthy to be trusted.

Patrons of the street cars have been very much interested in the superior management which has taken such excellent care of the track on the Andover line for the past few years. Just at present they are watching to see how many times the experience of running off the track must be repeated before the low and uneven stretch of rail in Marland village will be repaired.

A rain, nearly a month ago, caused such disturbance at this point that cars were derailed and passengers delayed very much. Later another storm came and a similar experience was encountered, and now on Wednesday of this week occurred the third break in the traffic at this same place. And all because of very lax oversight on the part of some one in authority.

It would seem as if the comfort and convenience of the large street car travelling public in Andover ought to be worth more than is represented by a day's work of a half dozen diggers and a boss.

The republican representative convention at North Andover last Saturday evening was a notable one in several respects. Every delegate was present and every act of the convention was the unanimous expression of the entire membership of the convention. Mr. Poor, the nominee, is neither an orator nor a politician, but he is very evidently a clear headed, keen sighted, and intelligent business man, whose judgment the district may very safely trust during the coming legislative session.

How things are booming! Every wheel is turning and every shuttle flying, and not an idle hand anywhere, unless the hand, perchance, is too lazy to work. One of the results of all this that affects a large part of our population is the scarcity of servant girls, it being almost impossible to supply the demand, owing to the extraordinary demands of the manufacturing.

ST. AUGUSTINE'S FAIR.

Opened in the Town Hall, Tuesday Evening by the Parish. Interesting Program for the Week. Tables and Their Attendants.

Tuesday evening was the opening evening of St. Augustine's parish fair, being held at the Town Hall this week, and the hall was taxed to accommodate all who were present on that evening. Congressman John Fitzgerald of Boston, was in attendance and opened the fair with a speech.

Congressman Fitzgerald was introduced by Rev. Fr. O'Mahoney, who in a brief address told of the former's career in congress. In his speech, Congressman Fitzgerald praised the Catholics of Andover for their endeavor to build a larger and better place of worship, expressing the hope that their labors should receive a due reward. He commented on the work that Fr. O'Mahoney is doing here and complimented him on the success of his efforts.

Changing his subject, he reviewed the history of America from the landing of Columbus to the present time, showing the prominent part that the Catholic world had played in the life of the new world. He said the first prayer offered on this continent was by Catholics and the first religious service was the consecration of the holy sacrifice of the mass. Going on to the Revolution, the war of 1812, 1862, he told of the part taken by the Catholics in each, then later, the last war took his attention and he said wherever there was a Sampson, a Shafter or a Dewey, Catholics were also there. The address was very interesting and the speaker's words were applauded warmly.

Divisions 7 and 8 of the Lawrence A. O. H. also came over from the city in special electric, accompanied by the Lawrence Brass Band, to attend the fair, and previous to entering the hall, paraded up Main street.

Peter Graham was in charge of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the Hibernian Rifles which were also present were led by Timothy Fitzgerald. They made a good showing and numbered about 150 men.

The program for the evening consisted of selections by the band, and a laughable season with Miles Jordan, a comedian, from Lawrence.

Strenuous efforts have been made by the parish people to achieve success in their fair and the prospects seem good for the fulfillment of these intentions. Beautiful hangings of blue, green, pink and white bunting, looped with rosettes, draped around the walls and rays of the same colored bunting, extending from the chandelier in the centre of the ceiling to the sides of the hall, make a handsome combination of hues in the decorations of the room. Around the sides of the hall are the tables in charge of various societies and organizations of the church, arranged in various odd and striking forms, trimmed prettily. Each table is in charge of a lady or gentleman with a corps of assistants, and each was trimmed by those in charge. Upstairs a shooting gallery is a drawing card with the men and boys. This is in charge of several young men of the parish. The cloak room in one corner is also looked after by the young men.

On Wednesday evening, the program consisted of dialect readings and comic songs by William McDade, of Lawrence, and vocal selections by members of the choir from St. Mary's church, Lawrence.

Thursday evening, Moran and Devine, Indian club jugglers, and the Parthenian orchestra furnished the entertainment. Tonight, the choir of St. Augustine's church will have the program in charge. They will be assisted by William McConor, of Lawrence, violin soloist. On tomorrow night, the last evening of the fair, prizes will be awarded to holders of the lucky numbers.

Refreshment table—Miss Mary Mercer, assisted by Mrs. John McKenzie, Miss Kate Buckley and Miss Mary T. Donovan.

The decorations for the Sunday school and choir tables were furnished by L. C. Moore Company, and Reid & Hughes of Lawrence.

Following is a list of articles contributed for the fair and their donors: Couch, Buckley, McCormick and Sullivan; willow rocker, Miss Annie G. Donovan; parlor stove, M. T. Walsh; sideboard, W. H. POOR FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

Nominated by Acclamation at Representative Convention in North Andover Saturday Evening.

The eighth republican representative district convention was held at the Selectmen's rooms, North Andover, last Saturday evening. Chairman John N. Cole, of the district committee, called the meeting to order shortly after 8 o'clock and by motion of George H. Poor, Mr. Cole was chosen as temporary chairman. Joseph A. Smart, of Andover, was made temporary secretary.

The chair appointed E. W. Greene, of North Andover, George W. Foster and John S. Dearborn of Andover, as a committee on credentials. The committee reported twenty-two delegates present, 14 from Andover and eight from North Andover. North Andover was entitled to nine delegates, one being present without a credential.

Upon a motion by Barnett Rogers, the temporary organization was made permanent.

John L. Smith of Andover, hoped that in the future, delegates would not be chosen pledged to any man but favorable to him, so that they might be allowed to use their judgement. He moved that James C. Poor, of North Andover, be nominated by acclamation as the republican candidate for representative from the 8th district. A. W. Badger of North Andover, seconded the nomination and it was unanimously carried.

It was voted that the chairman of the Republican Town committees, from the three towns, should constitute the district committee.

It was voted that the district committee be empowered to fill any vacancy that might occur through the death of the nominee.

A supplementary report by the committee on credentials showed that twenty-four delegates were present, two having arrived from Middleton.

A committee of three consisting of Barnett Rogers, of Andover, Albert A. Wilkins of Middleton, and A. W. Badger of North Andover, was appointed by the chair to escort the nominee before the convention.

Mr. Poor when brought before the convention, made a brief speech in which he thanked the convention for the honor which the party through its delegates did him. He said that there had been no question in his mind as to what action the town of Andover would take in the matter of choosing between right and wrong; it would not be found wanting in a question of fair play. After cigars had been circulated, the convention adjourned, having been in session about twenty minutes.

Weddings.

LADD-JONES.

A quiet home wedding took place Thursday forenoon, when Miss Sarah E. Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Jones, of East Boston, was wedded to Frederick H. Ladd, of Andover.

The ceremony took place at Westport, Me., the bride's summer home, and was performed by Rev. Frank Jones, of Bowdoinham, Me., a cousin of the bride. They were married by the beautiful service with the ring, standing under a lovely canopy of autumn foliage and greenery, in the presence of the immediate relatives and a few friends only. There were no attendants.

The bride was gown in white silk, trimmed with muslin de soie. She carried bride roses. Following the wedding, a reception was held for the guests after which the newly wedded couple left on a short wedding journey. Mr. and Mrs. Ladd will be at home after November 1st, at 46 Whittier street. The groom is well known locally having been for some time a reporter on the Townsman, but is now connected with the Lawrence Telegram, besides being a correspondent for several Boston papers and the Associated Press. Mr. and Mrs. Ladd received many handsome presents.

RONAN-GILLIGAN.

James S. Ronan, a foreman in the water-works department and Miss Julia Gilligan, a former employee at Draper Hall, were united in marriage at the Catholic church, Wednesday afternoon, at 3.30 o'clock. Rev. Fr. O'Mahoney performed the ceremony in the presence of 30 or 40 friends of the bridal couple.

The bride wore a costume of brown cashmere trimmed with lemon colored satin and carried bride roses. They were attended by John W. Murphy, as best man and Miss Mary Sweeney as bridesmaid. The bridesmaid's costume was also of brown cashmere trimmed with turquoise blue over lace, and she carried white pinks.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the future home of the couple on Pearson street which was attended by their most intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Ronan left at 9.40 for Boston on a short wedding trip. They were the recipients of many handsome presents.

PAIGE-STUART.

Charles Dearborn Paige, president of the Lowell common council and Miss Lillian Gray Stuart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stuart, were married Wednesday evening in the First Universalist Church, Lowell, by the Rev. C. E. Fisher. Myron L. Paige was best man, and Miss Gertrude E. Knowlton of Hudson, Miss Annie Smart of Andover, Miss Elber E. Bean and Miss Agnes Bailey of Lowell were the bridesmaids. Miss Adelaide Hardy of Newark, N. J., was maid of honor. The ushers were George A. Stuart, William J. Freeman, Fred W. Coburn and Marion L. Clark. The bride is the grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Stewart, and niece of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Smart, of this place.

TROW-BATTLES.

A quiet and private wedding took place on Lowell street, yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, when Miss Amy F. Battles, daughter of the late Otis and Ann Battles, was united in marriage to William A. Trow, of the West Parish. Rev. G. A. Andrews of the West Church was the officiating clergyman. After a short wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Trow will reside at 31 Lowell street, Frye Village.

REPUBLICAN CLUB DINNER.

Noted Speakers to Address Massachusetts Republicans, Oct. 31.

The Annual Dinner of the Republican Club of Massachusetts will be held in Music Hall, Boston, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 31, 1899.

The speakers will be Gov. Theodore Roosevelt of New York, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Gov. Wolcott, Hon. W. Murray Crane and Hon. John L. Bates.

The great popularity of Gov. Roosevelt and the fact that this will probably be the first speech which Senator Lodge will deliver after his return from abroad, are enough to ensure a crowded hall, while every member of the Club will be glad to hear His Excellency the Governor or the candidates for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor.

Members of the Club are urged to make applications for tickets for themselves and their friends at once, as there is no doubt that the demand will largely exceed the capacity of the hall. Members will have the exclusive right to purchase tickets until Tuesday, Oct. 24, after which day the sale will be open to the public.

The arrangements will be similar to those of former years. The price of Dinner Tickets will be two dollars. The exchange of dinner tickets for reserved seats at the tables will take place in Horticultural Hall at 5 o'clock, and at Music Hall after 5.45 o'clock. The dinner will be served at 6 o'clock, and the speaking will begin promptly at 7. There will be good music, patriotic decorations and a satisfactory dinner. With each dinner ticket sold are given two tickets for the balconies, for friends or those participating in the dinner.

Dr. Bowker's Lectures.

For that portion of our community which, like Johnson, prefers to take its travel at its own fireside, the announcement of the travel talks by Dr. John C. Bowker will be hailed with delight. It is four years since he appeared in Andover, during which time he has again wandered in search of new material and made his second complete circuit of the globe, enjoying the distinction of being the most broadly traveled lecturer on the platform. His last season was the most successful in his career and drew large and cultivated audiences in New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Boston and Pittsburg, winning for him most flattering encomiums, the New York Herald pronouncing him "better than Stoddard."

His programme here includes for topics the Transvaal, Spain and Hawaii. These are subjects of special interest at the present time and the first one is a clear exposition of the case of Boer and Briton in South Africa, derived from Dr. Bowker's personal experiences on the spot and told in his vigorous fashion. Of the Spanish lecture the Boston Herald said: "The lecturer's broad culture, his wide sympathies, his noticeable impartiality in dealing with foreign people, together with his excellent literary style made the occasion one long to be remembered. It was a lecture of absorbing interest. The last talk on Hawaii bubbles with wit and is brightened with joyful little gusts of humor." The series given at the Town Hall will be identical, in every respect, with that given in Steiner Hall, under the patronage of Bishop Lawrence, Robert Treat Paine, Admiral Belknap, J. Malcolm Forbes and other prominent citizens. The illustrations for these lectures have been prepared with infinite care and are the choicest products of Alvarez de Barcelona, Hauser Y. Menet of Madrid, Lachena of Paris, Lenon of Cape Town and Wilson of Aberdeen.

The Senatorial Campaign.

The attention of the citizens is hereby called to the records of two candidates for Senator, between whom the voters of the 5th Senatorial District must make a choice on election day; there was a bill which came before the Legislature this year in which the residents of the Towns within the District were especially interested. Namely: An Act to make the Lord's day close season for birds and game. This Bill reads as follows:—

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:— Every Lord's day shall be close season. Whoever hunts or destroys birds or game of any kind on the Lord's day shall be liable to the penalties imposed for violation during other close seasons, and such penalties shall be in addition to those already imposed for violation of the laws relating to shooting upon the Lord's day. (Approved March 1, 1899.) This bill is greatly needed to protect our farming districts from the ravages of an irresponsible class of persons who go about on Sunday annoying the people and shooting every living thing.

It is as onishing that any Representative should vote against this Bill, but Rep. Guy W. Currier, the Democratic nominee for Senator, is recorded as voting against this Bill, while Senator Chas. F. Sargent who is a candidate for re-election on the Republican Ticket favored the bill and did all he could to secure its passage. The bill is now a law and our People have the much needed protection.

Hero or Fool?

Some people think that the boy who stood on the burning deck was a hero; others think him a fool. But hero or fool or both, very few of us envy him his experience. A person who is content to have Rheumatism when he can be cured is not a hero. There is no doubt about that. Perhaps you have never heard of TARTARUM before. If so, that is your misfortune. Now that you have heard of it, make use of the knowledge. Those excruciating pains will become things of the past and life will be more worth living.

REID & HUGHES. ESSEX STREET, - - - LAWRENCETHE FLETCHER MUSIC METHOD

A Few Words of Interest to Parents and Pupils.

On account of the widespread interest in the Fletcher Music Method, a few words of explanation may not be amiss. It was originated by a young English girl living in Toronto, who saw the difficulties of trying to teach the abstract subject of music to children in the same way as to older people. She has patented a number of materials such as musical blocks, a keyboard, time division blocks and a scale ladder, by means of which and innumerable stories, games and songs, music is so taught that the lesson becomes a delight, eagerly anticipated, and, as Fletcher music teachers well know, hard to leave. Mothers can testify that children love to tear apart and put together again, and because of this natural desire they are given a keyboard from which every key may be removed, and then it may be replaced.

The time-division blocks and the scale-ladder are so admirably suited to their purpose, that often and often when these materials are shown to older people, they wish that they might be children again to study time and to learn to build scales in this delightfully clear way.

The eye, the ear, the fingers, the sense of rhythm are trained; the child is appealed to on every side through what he loves; there is provision made for his restless hours, and the times when he is willing to sit and play more quietly. What child can resist a "Once upon a time" story, or a lively game with the other children, the teacher a child with them also? And yet everything is a means to the end of learning music, and the results accomplished by the children are astonishing to older musicians.

The method prepares children for other instruments as well as the piano, and on account of the especial attention given to that most important subject, ear-training, parents of children backward about singing, have often had them take the method for this one thing.

The child sings songs, he gains a knowledge of composers, past and present, he learns something of Harmony (chords and intervals) he is taught to give expression to the music within him, and through it all the teacher cherishes in him most carefully his love of music.

Miss Clara Louise Carleton of Bradford, assistant in music at Abbot Academy expects to give a Demonstration of this method in Andover, about the first of November, in order that the mothers may judge for themselves of the value of the system.

Alarm of Fire.

About 1 o'clock, Thursday morning, Box 52, at the engine house was rung in for a slight blaze in the basement of Barnard's block, Main street. The fire was located in a pile of waste paper and oily rags at the foot of the cellar stairs leading from the entry. Nearby was a tank of kerosene oil and in the next basement, under Henry McLawlin's store, was stored considerable gun powder. Fortunately the fire was easily and quickly extinguished and did little damage.

The colored inmates of the block received a bad fright from the smoke which filled their rooms and many hurried out into the street in their night clothes. What caused the fire is not known but it may have been spontaneous combustion.

CLERGYMEN MEET

An all day meeting of the Andover Association of Congregational Clergymen was held Tuesday in the Riverside church, Water street, Lawrence, of which Rev. Henry E. Oxnard is pastor. The latter welcomed the members as they arrived, and the exercises opened at 9 o'clock with about 25 members present. From 9 to 9.15 o'clock the time was spent in renewing acquaintances. Rev. William E. Wolcott acted as moderator.

The first business in order was the action on reports of committees. Rev. E. A. Warfield, of Lowell, spoke on "Best Methods of Pastoral Visitation." Then followed an interesting discussion of "Function and Scope of Ecclesiastical Councils," by the members.

From 12.30 to 1 o'clock, a devotional service was held in which all participated. This was followed by dinner served by a ladies' committee, consisting of Mrs. Edward Padgett, Chairman, Mrs. Susan Mitchell, Mrs. George Watts, Mrs. Fred Briggs, Miss Mary Gidley. The tables were prettily decorated with ferns and flowers.

The afternoon session began at two o'clock and routine business was transacted, after which came the examination for licensure of Albert Henry Stoneman of Ann Arbor, Mich., who is a student at the Andover Theological Seminary.

Following this was a review of Illingworth's "Divine Immanence," by Rev. R. W. Dunbar, of North Chelmsford, and a paper on the "Life of Drummond," by Rev. F. A. Wilson, of this place.

The meeting was a very helpful and successful one, tending to promote interest along certain lines of work. The session closed about 4 o'clock.

KIND WORDS.

Kind words are far too scarce,
In this weary world of ours,
They're like oil on troubled waters,
Like the sunshine to the flowers.

They're like drink unto the thirsty,
They're like food unto the weak,
Give to those who need your comfort
Kind words from your heart oft speak

Help along each fallen brother,
If you cannot give him gold
Give him cheer and treat him kindly,
"Tho the black sheep of the fold."

What right have we to judge each other?
Can we read the inmost heart?
Would we do just one bit better,
If we had to act his part?

Do not help to drag him lower,
Give not scorn nor laugh nor sneer,
But give kind words; lead him onward
Perhaps for him salvation's near.

For God sees with eyes of mercy—
As we're tempted when we fail,
He considers our weak nature,
And with justice judgeth all.

L. A. Q.

During the winter of 1897, Mr. James Reed, one of the leading citizens and merchants of Clay, Clay Co., W. Va., struck his leg against a cake of ice in such a manner as to bruise it severely. It became very much swollen and pained him so badly that he could not walk without the aid of crutches. He was treated by physicians, also used several kinds of liniment and two and a half gallons of whisky in bathing it, but nothing gave him any relief until he began using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. This brought almost a complete cure in a week's time and he believes that had he not used this remedy his leg would have had to be amputated. Pain Balm is unequalled for sprains, bruises and rheumatism. For sale by Arthur Bliss, Andover, C. H. Shattuck, Ballardvale.

IN THE BEGINNING.

"Not enough work?"
"That wasn't it; that was afraid he'd here in the morning before the other."—Chicago Record.

"I would lay the earth at your feet," he exclaimed. But she looked at him icily and returned:

"I see no reason for troubling you, Mr. Dobby. Unless the law of gravity has been unexpectedly repealed, the earth is there already."—Washington Star.

A COUNTERFEIT IN CIRCULATION.

A new counterfeit $10 silver certificate has been discovered by the secret service division of the treasury department. It is of series 1891, check letter M, plate number indistinct, probably 74, J. Fount Tillman, register; D. N. Morgan, treasurer; portrait of Hendricks. It is a dangerous photomechanical production, printed on soft paper, probably made up from two sheets of Japanese tissue. Green and red ink lines are used to imitate the silk fibre of the genuine.

The face of the note has a grayish tinge, owing no doubt, to the use of poor quality of black ink. The color of the seal is a trifle too dark. The treasury number is good, both as to color and formation. The lathe work, with the exception of that in the counter upper right corner face of note, is well executed. The back of the note is more deceptive than the face. The imprint of the bureau of engraving and printing left end, back, is illegible.

Educators Meet.

There were fourteen present at the regular monthly meeting of the Masters club Tuesday night in the parlors of the Brunswick hotel on Essex street.

Wendell P. Brown of 51 Smith street opened the session with a talk on educational review. The different studies of today as compared with those of years back showed great advancement in the line of educational work and Mr. Brown was praised by his fellow associates for his able speech.

New education was spoken of by A. L. Fulkerson, Superintendent J. E. Burke spoke well on co-operation between principals, teachers and pupils. For years the various phases of school life have been constantly before the public and there is not much to say that has not been said. Mr. Burke however brought out several points that are well to remember. He gave no regular address the assembly being an informal, conventional gathering but spoke from notes.

The main thing, he said, in order to get best results from school work is to have the principals, teachers and pupils work together in harmony. Too often it is the case that good work is destroyed by an over-bearing teacher or a pessimistic principal. The pupil is but youth. He is alive to all the qualities good or bad he sees in his instructors and what he learns from them is what is going to shape his character. Many say that the parents are guardians these days of a pupil's welfare, but I think it is the teacher of the public schools who have more to do with it than anyone else. They are with them the largest percent of the time and their thought, character and actions go a good way. A pupils always remembers what he sees in school, and he, nine out of ten, follows up the same line of education when he goes out into the world to do life's battle. The teacher, I say has the shaping of our future citizens, and to them belongs the credit for what the smallest juvenile in the schools makes of himself. Mr. Burke spoke clearly and concisely for over an hour. Refreshments were served. Among those present were James D. Horne, Edward S. Riley, A. L. Fulkerson, Hector L. Belsile, Ernest C. Jewell, Edward M. Sheridan, Wendell P. Brown, Charles M. Langrey, David W. Holt, Adelbert H. Morrison, Michael G. O'Brien, Frank W. Thompson, A. W. Scribner and William W. Keayes. Party broke up about 11 o'clock.

Sad Fatality.

Peter Welsh, a brakeman on the Boston & Maine railroad, was caught between two freight cars and killed shortly before 8 o'clock Tuesday night about 100 yards north of the Salem street bridge. This is the third fatal accident which has occurred in that vicinity within a comparatively short time.

He was preparing to make a coupling between two box cars and unexpectedly a train of three or four cars was backed down against one of them. Welsh was doubtless unprepared and he was crushed between the cars.

Conductor Abbott of the crew of the shifter, it is reported, shouted to the brakeman, but the warning came too late. Death was probably instantaneous.

The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of Conlin & Ryan and viewed by Medical Examiner Howe. The condition of the body indicated that death was due to internal injuries.

Welsh was aged about 21 years. He was unmarried. His home was in Blackstone, R. I., where he has a sister. He came to Lawrence several months ago and for some time was employed by Patrick L. Bbey, the Amesbury street tobacconist. He roomed at 27 Orchard street. Both his father and mother are dead, the former having been killed on the railroad in Blackstone about a year ago while in the performance of his duties as a brakeman. The body will be taken to Woonsocket for interment.

COST OF COURT SESSION.

The expenses of the sitting of the criminal court recently held in this city were as follows: Witnesses, $3307.10; trial jurors, $2106.16; court officers, $891.80; grand jury, $454.02; incidentals, $357.53; constables summoning jurors, $43.90. There are one or two small bills yet to come.

HOT STUFF.

A well-known Mississippi farmer will have cause to remember his recent visit to Memphis, says the Scimitar. He stopped in a well-known cafe and, among other things, ordered a sirloin steak. A bottle of tobacco sauce was on the table, and mistaking it for catsup, he spread it quite lavishly on the steak and settled down to enjoy the meal. He cut off a big piece, but he soon had it struck his mouth and he began to feel like his tongue was on fire. He twisted and turned, and soon had the eyes of every one in the dining hall fastened on him. The more he twisted and screwed his face, the hotter the steak in his mouth grew. He didn't know what was the matter. He could stand it no longer, and reaching up his hand he jerked out the burning bite, threw it on the floor, and in a very dramatic way, exclaimed: "Now, d-n you, blaze!"

They were gazing across the lake. "It looks like rain," said the man who is reckless with his English.
"Water," said the reckless man.

On the 10th of December, 1897, Rev. S. A. Donahoe, pastor M. E. Church, South, Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., contracted a severe cold which was attended from the beginning by violent coughing. He says: "After resorting to a number of so-called 'specifics' usually kept in the house, to no purpose, I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which acted like a charm. I most cheerfully recommend it to the public." For sale by Arthur Bliss, Andover, C. H. Shattuck, Ballardvale.

HER EXPERIENCE.

"Why don't you go to the store across the way if you are looking for a bargain?"
"My experience in that shop has taught me that, if you wish anything cheap, you have to pay well for it."—From Judge.

Caeser—Doctor, a year ago you predicted that I wouldn't live three months. You see, you were wrong.
Doctor—Never mind; better luck next time.—Puck.

"Fashion," quoth the womanly woman, "demands of a person that she have no heart!"
The other woman sighed wearily.
"Ah, if that were only all," she exclaimed, with bitterness. "Why, some seasons fashion demands that a person have no hips, even!"
And that, forsooth, were a thing not always easily managed.—Detroit Free Press.

TYPOGRAPHICAL.

Mr. Newlywed (bitterly)—"You used to say I was 'nonpareil' among men."
Mrs. Newlywed—"Well, I still think you are a very small 'type.'"—Judge.

"No, Ellen, I can't tack down any carpets. The doctor said all my recreation must consist of out-door sports."
"All right, William, there are three carpets out on the line which you can beat."—Chicago Record.

POST-MORTEM GOSSIP.

"And so old Fudelson left $10,000 to that bird, who was no relation to him whatever. Do you suppose he was in love with her?"

"Oh no, not that especially, but she flattered him into it. You know his head was as bare as a billiard ball, and that he wore a wig? Well, shortly before he became ill, she told him she thought he had such lovely, glossy hair for a man of his age, and asked him to let her wear a lock of it."

WELL PLANNED.

She—And did her father follow you when you eloped?
He—Yes; he's living with us yet.—Yonkers Statesman.

ODD ITEMS.

Mrs. William P. Townsend of Clearwater trout ponds, Me., recently shot with a rifle from a window of the building overlooking the pond, a blue heron at the farther side of the pond. The distance being 300 yards, she was a little surprised at seeing him fall, and crossing the pond in a boat, she found him shot through the head.

PARROT CALLED VICTORIA UGLY.

A tale that is current just now is that the parrot in the chaplain's room at Windsor castle screeched at the Queen who failed to hear what the bird said. She asked the chaplain for a translation, but he demurred. Her Majesty insisted, and finally he was compelled to admit that the parrot had said: "Go along, you ugly old woman!" She laughed heartily, remarking, "Well, I am glad to know there is at least one voice in the kingdom not afraid to tell me what it thinks of me."

S. S. S. GOES TO THE BOTTOM.

In every test made S. S. S. easily demonstrates its superiority over other blood remedies. It matters not how obstinate the case, nor what other treatment or remedies have failed, S. S. S. always promptly reaches and cures any disease where the blood is in any way involved. Everyone who has had experience with blood diseases knows that there are no ailments so obstinate and difficult to cure. Very few remedies claim to cure such real, deep-seated blood diseases as S. S. S. cures, and none can offer such incontrovertible evidence of merit. S. S. S. is not merely a tonic—it is a cure! It goes down to the very seat of all blood diseases, and gets at the foundation of the very worst cases, and routes the poison from the system. It does not, like other remedies, dry up the poison and hide it from view temporarily, only to break forth again more violently than ever; S. S. S. forces out every trace of taint, and rids the system of it forever.

Mrs. T. W. Lee, Montgomery, Ala., writes: "Some years ago I was inoculated with poison by a nurse who infected my babe with blood taint. I was covered with sores and ulcers from head to foot, and in my great extremity I prayed to die. Several prominent physicians treated me, but all to no purpose. The mercury and potash which they gave me seemed to add fuel to the awful flame which was devouring me. I was advised by friends who had seen wonderful cures made by it, to try Swift's Specific. I improved from the start, as the medicine seemed to go direct to the cause of the trouble and force the poison out. Twenty bottles cured me completely." Swift's Specific—

S. S. S. FOR THE BLOOD

—Is the only remedy that is guaranteed purely vegetable, and contains no mercury, potash, arsenic, or any other mineral or chemical. It never fails to cure Cancer, Eczema, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Contagious Blood Poison, Tetters, Boils, Carbuncles, Sores, etc.

The Company's properties consist of several thousand acres of TESTED OIL PROPERTY in Ohio and West Virginia, having a monthly production of over 15,000 barrels.

The policy of the Company from the start has been to purchase nothing but producing oil lands; and with their present output of oil will be able to pay not less than 8 per cent per annum from the start.

The Company are now negotiating for a number of oil wells, which when secured will give them a monthly yield of over 30,000 barrels; this will more than double the net profits of the Company applicable for dividends.

COPY OF BUCKEYE PIPE LINE COMPANY'S STATEMENT.

CLEVELAND, August 23rd, 1899.
DEAR SIR:—Confirming my telegram of this A. M., I beg to say that your Company had run for its credit during April 5,142.64 barrels, May 5,529.36 barrels, June 5,663.13 barrels, July 5,949.46 barrels. There appears to be one run made in July not credited to your account until August, owing to absence of Division order.
Therefore, if you desire to be more accurate you should add 146.82 to the amount of that run to the credit during July, making the total for the month 5,196.39 barrels.
Yours truly,
R. L. BATES, Agent.

The above statement refers only to our Ohio field, the balance of the pipeline certificates can be seen at the Company's office, showing the West Virginia 25,000 acres of land distributed throughout the well-known "oil-producing fields" of Ohio and West Virginia.

With the price of oil increasing almost daily the net earnings of the Company during the next year, should not fall short of $25,000.

For the rapid development of the Company's property, the officers have decided to sell fifty thousand (50,000) shares of the Treasury Stock at par, $5.00 after which the price will be advanced without notice.

Wedding.

FOWLER-SMITH.
Descendants of two prominent New England families were united in marriage Saturday and the scene of the rite was the Congregational church. William Plummer Fowler, Esq., of Boston formerly of Concord N. H., was the groom and Miss Susan Farnham Smith eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. D. Smith of Boston and this town was the bride.

At 2.30 o'clock, the appointed time, the groom attended by Mr. William Atherton of Boston, as groomsmen, awaited at the altar the coming of the bride. Just before the music of Wagner, the wedding party preceded by the ushers, approached those in waiting, the bride accompanied by her father by whom she was presented. Rev. Edward Everett Hale, D. D., of the South Congregational church, Boston, performed the ceremony, and the local pastor Rev. Charles Noyes, assisted.

Dr. Hale, a warm personal friend of the family, found especial pleasure in officiating, as both bride and groom are prominent members of his home church. Mr. Fowler being a chairman of the standing committee. The second daughter, Miss Harriet Stevens Smith was the maid of honor. The gown of the bride was of white satin trimmed with Duchesse lace of rare pattern. She wore a veil of white tulle, gracefully draped and caught with orange blossoms. A beautiful jewel, a crescent of diamonds, the gift of Miss Fowler, the groom's sister, was the only ornament worn. Bride roses were the chosen flowers. The maid of honor wore a becoming gown of white muslin and carried pink blossoms.

The ushers were Messrs. "Courtney Guild, Edward Hale Smith, brother of the bride, Josiah Minot Fowler, Edward Eaton Williams, Francis Lowell Colledge, William E. Merrill, Atherton Sewall of Boston, and Moses Tyler Stevens, Jr., of town. The pulpit front was richly set with an arch of palms, ferns, rubber plants and decked with chrysanthemums and roses. The balcony front and entrance were festooned with twined evergreen. Prof. Hamer of Lawrence presided at the organ. Immediately following the nuptial ceremony a reception was held in the family summer residence just north of the church, on Prospect street.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler interchanged greetings and received the well wishes and congratulatory messages of their guests in the central parlor, standing between two pyramids of palms whose bases were of smaller tropical plants. Between the palm trees, extending from ceiling to floor, were strands of twined evergreen, while around the upper ceilings and upon the centre chandelier were vines of asparagus fern. Beautiful asters and other blossoms en masse among the greenery, completed the artistic effect. The north and south parlors were also artistically adorned. The marble mantels were banked with maiden hair ferns, the mirrors above were bordered with twined evergreen and wood ferns filled the fireplace. Groups of potted ferns and other plants were placed elsewhere. The dining room was woven in pretty festoons above the doors and strands of the same bordered the spacious halls. The banister rail was wound with greenery and terminated in a graceful spray upon the pedestal.

The mantle of the dining room was also prettily adorned with flowers. Folding doors enabled the three parlors to become one spacious room which added much to the convenience of the guests. The decorative features were designed by friends and the effect attained was decidedly pleasing. The reception was held between the hours of 3 and 4.30 o'clock, during which time the Columbian orchestra discoursed music. Caterer Page of Lowell served the wedding feast. A special train of five cars from Boston at 1 o'clock brought the Boston guests to the North Andover depot, and from there the guests were conveyed by private carriages and special electric cars to the residential site. The guests returned by special train at 5 o'clock. Of the large number of distinguished guests invited about 500 responded and this number represented besides Boston and vicinity, Concord, Exeter, Portsmouth, Manchester N. H., Salem, Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill, and the Andovers.

The ushers were met at the South depot in the morning and entertained at dinner at the Country club house. The bridal gifts were many and included almost everything that art could suggest or genius devise. Some dozen or more tables attractively arranged in the south chamber set forth a marvel of value and elegance. The day also commemorated the second anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Leland, the latter being the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Smith.

Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Fowler sailed on the steamship Frederick Groose from New York for a trip abroad. Returning they will be at home Thursday in February 15-22 at 275 Newbury street, Boston. The fairest of fall days, distinguished and congenial guests, the twined refinement of the proceedings all contributed to make the wedding a very notable event to the whole countryside.

An Illustrated Lecture.

So universal is the interest in attempts to beautify homes, streets and parks, by window boxes, and the planting of trees, flowering plants, vines and shrubs, that we are sure many of our readers remember an illustrated article in the April Review of Reviews, written by W. H. Tolman, and setting forth in the most graphic and entertaining manner, the marvellous change that has taken place in Dayton, Ohio, by systematic, persistent work in this direction.

Mr. Tolman who is the Secretary of the League for Social Service, New York City, describes in this article how mill yards, storage buildings, tenement houses, and stretches of bare, ugly walls, became dreams of beauty, under the direction of F. L. Ormstead; with comparatively little expense of money, owing to the wide-spread enthusiasm of owners, laborers, members of the city government and even little children.

So fascinating was this article, so much seemed to have been accomplished, that the Secretary of the Andover Village Improvement Society wrote Mr. Tolman, and found that he was continually giving an illustrated lecture, which in greater detail told the same story, and by the aid of lantern and slides, made the improvement still more evident. Besides, the secretary learned that Mr. Tolman could adapt himself to local conditions and could show us how to make our beautiful Andover still more beautiful.

Mr. Tolman has this last summer given this lecture in Liverpool and Edinburgh most successfully; and lately at a Federation of Women's Clubs in Boston, held the attention of a weary audience for more than an hour with its substance matter.
